Bradatreet's Report.

New York, January 19.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:
Trade circles have been dominated by weather conditions this week, and although recent temperatures have moderated, the fact is that the very severe weather militated against the placing of orders, while also retarding business and movements at country points.

With the coming of more settled weather, visiting buyers will become more plentiful, and trade will experience more or less conservative improvement. As it is, there are many buyers in the country's lending dry goods markets, and on that account inquiries for cotton goods are broadening, but the signs indicate that purchases will be of the small-lot variety, with which mills have become familiar. This tendency spells keen competition and, presumably, increased cost. Cheaper raw cotton has enabled makers of cotton blankets to open the second which what are deemed attractive prices, but buyers are not disposed to make free purchases, and such being the case manufacturers and dealers are compelled to avait developments as regards retaillers demands. But unsettled raw cotton prices, did abroad, prevent definite steadiness in cotton goods, though the price situation at the moment is firmer.
